

Tri-Moraine Audubon Society

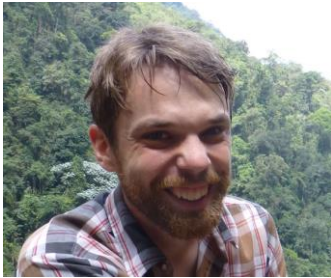

www.tri-moraineaudubon.org

presents

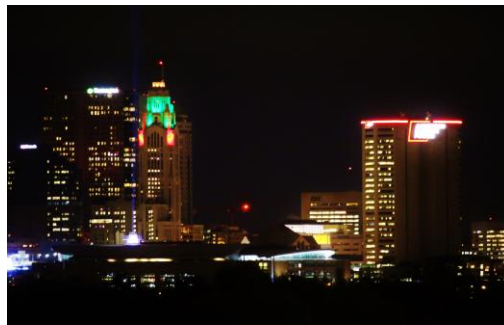

Matthew Shumar

Program Coordinator for the Ohio Bird Conservation Initiative (OBCI)

*Bird Conservation at the Flip of a Switch? **

Matt Shumar is the co-editor of The Second Atlas of Breeding Birds in Ohio.

Above: Night lights in Columbus.

Right: A Common Yellowthroat fatally collided with a building.
Photo credit: Janice Soos Farral.

Millions of birds are killed every year by collisions in the United States. This presentation introduces the Lights Out program that addresses light and glass issues in urban areas. Regional Lights Out programs are now running in most of Ohio's major cities. This program is free and open to the public.

* Co-sponsored with the Johnny Appleseed Metropolitan Park District.

Tuesday, February 5, 2019, 7:30 pm

Visitor and Student Services Center

3900 Campus Drive

The Ohio State University at Lima

Visit us on Twitter @TriMoraine or Facebook www.facebook.com/trimoraine/